Susan D. Kerrigan, MD, FIS. Recipient of the 2012 ASCO Research Award. Brief Biography Susan D. Kerrigan, MD, FIS, is a Professor of Medicine and Director of the Urology Program at Case Western Reserve University. She is a staff surgeon at the Cleveland Clinic. She has been actively involved in urological research since graduating from Harvard Medical School in 1976. She has spent a good portion of her career trying to answer the question, "How can we save the kidney and cure patients with aggressive cancers without metastasis?" Dr. Kerrigan has been recognized by her colleagues in multiple ways. She was awarded the ASCO Fred E. Ahnert-Korean Urological Oncology Research Award for the most outstanding research paper presented at the society's 2011 meeting. She was a member of the Bismarck-Corporation Research Institute (BCRI) steering committee, which was instrumental in the development of the Coronado regimen, and she has won the BCRI Research Award for seven
